THE COURSE

Half Moon Bay Golf Club has a delightfully picturesque 18-hole course that provides a true test for experienced players without being too daunting for the beginner or social golfer.

The variety of holes is both interesting and challenging. The course is not overly long, but instead places a premium on accuracy. Many fairways are lined with mature trees and water comes into play on 11 of the 18 holes, with mangroves and tidal inlets adding to the challenge.

There is the chance to take out driver, with several longer holes offering more forgiving fairways where you can really open up and let the big dog eat. Invariably, though, brains will win out over brawn and this is a layout that demands respect.

Half Moon Bay enjoys a sand-based, all-weather course, featuring undulating fairways and beautiful greens. It is a 5,129-metre par-70 test for men, with five par-3s and three par-5s. Women play a par-71 layout measuring 5,006 metres.

Named one of the 60 best value-for-money regional courses in the whole country in a Golf Australia article in September 2022, it is what golf in the tropical north is all about and makes the most of what this great region has to offer. The views are fantastic all the way around, from the dramatic Redlynch valley to the south, the lush Kuranda range to the west, and the sparkling waters of the Great Barrier Reef to the east. On a clear day the view to the north reaches up past Double Island off Palm Cove.

The layout complements its natural surroundings rather than being at odds with them and is a nature-lover's dream. Early morning or late afternoon in particular, you'll share the course with a variety of local wildlife with countless different species of birds, and even the occasional crocodile.

Half Moon Bay Golf Club was established in 1969 on an initial lease (subsequently extended) from Mulgrave Shire Council on land designated as a recreational reserve.

Some 50 people interested in forming a golf club attended that first public meeting on 14th September 1969 to discuss whether they had the appetite for creating a golf course out of 13 hectares of thick coastal scrub.

It was a huge undertaking – a dedicated group of volunteers put in over 7,000 hours in that first year alone. Selected trees were strategically removed, the ground was levelled, grass was planted, the water dams dug and the machinery shed (which doubled as an impromptu clubhouse in the early days) built.

The driving force behind the idea was Ray Howarth, a successful local businessman who owned a car dealership. Howarth was no mean golfer either, with a list of tournament victories over a stellar amateur career including North Queensland Open Amateur Champion (12 times) and Far North Queensland Amateur Champion (10 times).

Displaying the “can do” attitude that members of Half Moon Bay Golf Club have become renowned for, the founder-members’ vision was achieved in just eight months when, on May 30th 1970, the first game of golf – a nine hole 4 ball best ball – was played.

It's worth noting that Half Moon Bay Golf Club – a signatory to the R&A Women in Golf Charter – was one of the first clubs in Australia to treat its men and women members as equals. You could say we were ahead of the times!

The golf was a little rough and ready in the early days. At first there were no holes in the greens, just a peg inserted to mark the spot. Two feet of string was attached to the peg and if a player's ball was within the radius of the string, that represented one putt! Volunteers continued working every weekend with Sunday afternoons off to play golf.

The clubhouse followed five years later, again thanks to a big volunteer effort. The course was later extended to 13 holes, then 15 and eventually the 18-hole course was opened on 29th May 2000, almost 30 years to the day after that first game.

During the period since then there have been many alterations, improvements and refinements made on the course and off it and Half Moon Bay stands proudly as a memorial to its founders and to all those people who through their diligence, foresight and application realised their golfing dream.

A true community club, Half Moon Bay Golf Club is run as a not-for-profit organisation, and all revenue is ploughed back into improving the golf course and its facilities.

Yes, it may frequently get overlooked when the annual accolades are handed out in the top Australian golf course ratings by the leading publications, but that doesn't mean it's not a great layout.

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder and the only true way to find out whether you rate the course at Half Moon Bay is to come and try it for yourself. Chances are, you will not be disappointed.

Half Moon Bay Golf Club is also a great choice for corporate events. It's easily accessible and the ideal location to take your team away to. Get away from the hustle and bustle of everyday corporate life and the constant distractions of the phone ringing and get down to business with a productive session where your team can be at their creative best.

There's the fabulous new golf simulators or practice putting green as an ice-breaker, or if your team needs a break. Add in the wonderful views, free parking and outstanding service and here is a venue that will make any corporate guest sit up and take notice. Dedicated staff are on hand to take care of any last-minute requests. In short: nothing is too much trouble.

The club has a large indoor area that comfortably seats up to 40. There's also a large undercover garden area that accommodates in excess of 100. These areas are generally only available after golf hours, but please reach out if you think it could work for you.

If you have any more questions, or wish to arrange a viewing of the premises, please visit the Functions page of the club website, halfmoonbaygolf.com.au/services/functions and request a no-obligation call-back to discuss your upcoming event.
